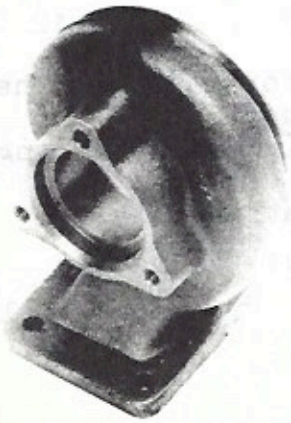
HIGH PERFORMANCE EXHAUST HOUSING FOR TURBOCHARGED CORVAIRS



By reducing the area of the scroll in the housing we have been able to both lower the RPM at which boost occurs, and increase the total amount of boost available. This housing may be bolted on any existing Corvair turbocharger that is in good condition, and will increase the boost available as well as "coming in" about 1000 RPM sooner. To develope the full potential from this unit, we strongly suggest the water injection system and your choice of a hi performance carb. A/R ratio .55.

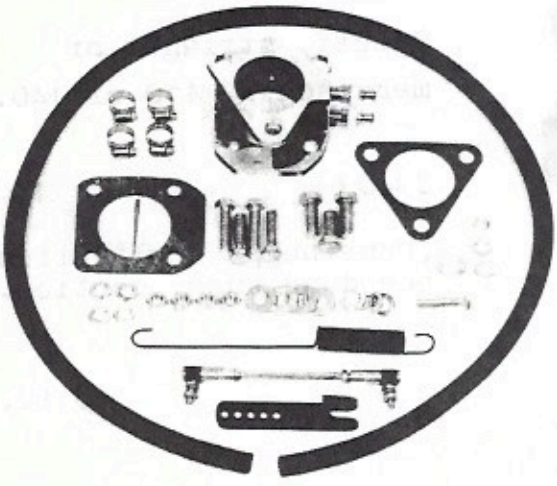
T5042 65-66 9 lb.

S.U. CARBURETOR ADAPTER



The 1 3/4" or 2" S.U. carb is an excellent, flexible carb that is easy to work with. Simple tapered needle is uncomplicated. Suction chamber (variable venturi) is a true demand system. The carb is not vibration or "G" sensitive, so makes the best off-road arrangment we've found. Also makes the most tractable street carb we have worked with. Two models are available. Used for simple carb swaps in any car. Includes adapter, needle jet for 2" carb linkage, gaskets and all hardware. Adapter has triangular flange for Corvair type Turbo. If round type inlet turbocharger is used T8014 would also be required.

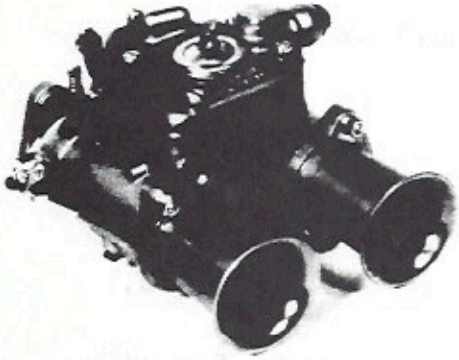
WEBER CARBURETOR ADAPTER

This unit adapts the 45 DCOE Weber 2 throat carb to any triangular inlet Corvair-type turbocharger, be it an original or a replacement. Comes as an aluminum casting, complete with O-ring seals.

T5044 — 3 lb.



WEBER Carburetor

The 45 DCOE Weber Carb 2 throat carb is our choice for more air intake thus greater boost. All jets and venturis are changeable without removing carb from manifold, thus making this a tuneable carb replacement.

SILICONE BRAKE FLUID. The only way to go (or shall we say stop). Most brake fluids continually absorb as much as 10% moisture which lowers fluid boiling point which can introduce brake vapor lock. The moisture content is constantly rusting, corroding, or otherwise ruining wheel and master cylinders, steel brake lines, etc. This is evident by the darkened color of the fluid. Regular fluid should be flushed periodically. Silicone fluid does not absorb moisture; just put in system and fret no more. Silicone has much higher boiling point, ideal for racing, autocross, and street application. Write for free testimonial. One pint is enough for your Corvair.

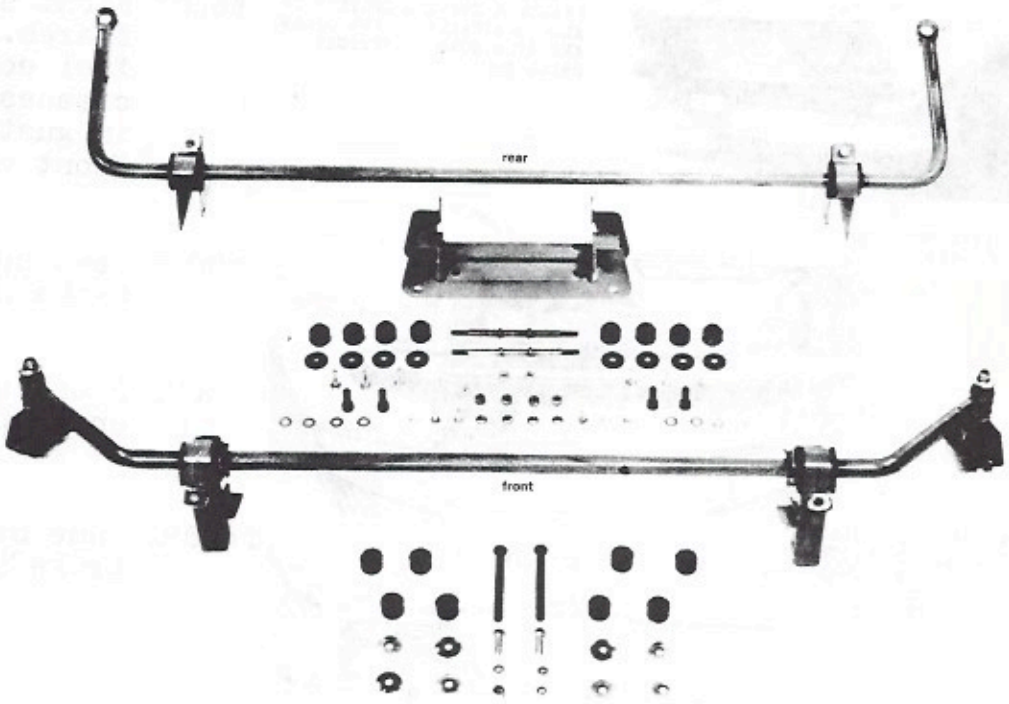
Accessories for The Handling Enthusiasts



HIGH PERFORMANCE HANDLING KIT FOR CORVAIR. This popular handling improvement kit fits any '65 or later Corvair with narrow or wide tires. Acceleration, cornering and braking are substantially improved when this kit is used in its entirety and properly installed. The rear lower control arm bracket makes the rear suspension truly parallel so that regardless of changes occuring in ride height caused by bump and rebound, braking and acceleration, the tires remain flat on the pavement. The rear brackets in this kit change the lower control arm pickup points to improve handling and high speed stability. The rear bar is designed to compliment the front bar and provide you with a 'tuned' suspension that will hold the car down and enable flat cornering. The front bar eliminates twisting in the A-frames. A slight amount of high speed understeer is noticeable (and desireable) during high speed operation. The standard .875 diameter bar size is used both front and rear. No other bar sizes are available. Normal hand tools are all that's required for installation.

THE YENKO STINGER.

We offer only a few accessories for the Stinger; all of which are reproductions. We have personally owned and raced one of these unique Corvairs; and it is our goal to manufacture and/or reproduce parts and accessories for the Stinger as long as there is a demand for them.

We owned Yenko Stinger #YS009, a Stage IV D-production road racer; in fact, we are currently sponsoring the car. It is now owned by Mr. Mike Heenan of northern California. We also own (and are restoring for Concours and autocross) #YS036. Please send us your needs and/or items you would like to see reproduced.
